Eco Pause for Thought Make your own compost

Even if you've cut down on food waste at home, there will still be some non-edible things such as peelings, stems and leaves that will end up in your food waste bin. Unless, that is, you have a home compost bin to add them to. Not only will making your own compost help put some of the contents of your kitchen caddy to good use, it could also save you money on bags of compost from the garden centre.

The Lord's Prayer Project

Earlier this year, Church of England Schools in our diocese were invited to take part in The Lord's Prayer Project. The Project, led by the Diocese of Chelmsford's Education Team, encouraged pupils, staff members, parents and governors to write or record The Lord's Prayer in all the different languages that are reflected in their school community.

Several schools across our diocese participated and sent in photographs or videos of their translations of The Lord's Prayer. Many schools also made creative displays of the written prayers for their school community to enjoy.

St John's Secondary School in Epping, sent in a picture of their school's display featuring translations of the Lord's Prayer from across the world.

St Edward's Voluntary Aided Primary School in Romford recorded a video of their pupils reciting each line of The Lord's Prayer in a different language including Romanian, Urdu, Malayalam, Ukrainian and Punjabi to name but a few.

Commenting on the project, the Rt Revd Guli Francis-Dehqani, the Bishop of Chelmsford said: "The Lord's Prayer is the prayer that connects Christians of every denomination, not just in this country but globally. It is the prayer that Jesus himself taught his disciples and it expresses our deepest needs and longings to God, for ourselves and for the world. It's a unifying prayer but it's also a profoundly personal one and so it's important for every Christian to be able to say the words in their own language.

"I hope The Lord's Prayer Project has helped demonstrate our unity, not just as Christians, but as human beings across different cultures, languages and experiences, and that it has helped pupils in our schools learn more about one another and encourage conversations about the importance of faith in our communities."

Katrina Carroll, Assistant Director of Education in Chelmsford Diocese added: "It was fantastic to see the hard work and creativity of pupils and to hear The Lord's Prayer written in the many languages represented across the diocese and within our schools. We hope that this project has helped individuals to feel recognised and valued whilst opening everyone's eyes to the presence of Christianity as a global faith."
